

Diagnostic Complete!

Miller, danylle

A1 | Chapter 10 Diagnostic: Sights & Sounds | damiller@carson.k12.nv.us

0%

0 out of 10 correct

Performance Review:

Q1: What does the attribute `alt=''` (empty alt text) tell a screen reader?

Your Answer: Skip this image because it is purely decorative.

✓ Correct

Q2: Which image format was created by Google to provide better compression than JPG while maintaining high quality?

Your Answer: WebP

✓ Correct

Q3: If you want to hide the 'Download' button on a native browser video player, you might use which attribute?

Your Answer: `controlsList='nodownload'`

✓ Correct

Q4: How does a Content Delivery Network (CDN) help a user in London load media faster from a site based in New York?

Your Answer: It compresses the HTML files into a single ZIP archive to save speed.

✓ Correct

Q5: Which 'POUR' principle is a developer following when they ensure a video has captions for hearing-impaired users?

Your Answer: Operable

✓ Correct

Q6: To provide a text file containing subtitles for a video, you use the `<track>` tag to link to which file format?

Your Answer: .vtt

✔ Correct

Q7: Which tag is used to provide the actual location (URL) of an audio file inside an <audio> container?

Your Answer: `<source>`

✔ Correct

Q8: You have a company logo with a transparent background. Which format should you choose to preserve that transparency?

Your Answer: `BMP`

✔ Correct

Q9: In a data table, you want one header cell to stretch across three columns. Which attribute do you apply to that <th> tag?

Your Answer: `colspan='3'`

✔ Correct

Q10: What is 'Lossy' compression best used for?

Your Answer: `Company logos that need to stay sharp at any possible scale.`

✔ Correct
